

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A rock and stone tumbling apparatus is provided for mobile transport to desired sites for continuous, uninterrupted operation to repeatedly receive, load and tumble large amounts of raw stone materials in order to give them a worn, aged, weathered and

5 decorative appearance, and then wash, size and discharge the tumbled stone product in sorted condition according to finished stone size, for the extremely efficient and cost effective large scale tumbling processing of rock and stone materials for use in landscaping, building and other industries.

10